

Piazza matta you?

Allison Dining Hall

This modern market is a feast for the eyes as well as the stomach.

Forget the professional chef's studio kitchen, or the casual lounge in the bakery, of the hydroponic gardens that bring fresh herbs and greens into every dish; what separates Allison from just another pretty place is the mezzanine. Being able to people-watch is a cornerstone of the college experience, and with Allison's lofted seating area, the view is positively scholastic.

From this vista, diner's get a birds-eye view of pops of color peppering the floor below as well as the buzz of interest around the various dining options, which include: Pure Eats (allergen free), Kosher, deli & grill, pizza and salads, and even comfort foods. Queuing isn't a problem with all these options as the flexible seating creates a tailored dining experience unique to each kitchen.

Learn more about this dynamic dining destination at nvironmentdesign.com

